MIX-UP ACTIVITY (15 min.): - Rachel

- Find 4 quadrant paper, underneath their craft bins
- Respond to four questions (3 min.)
- Intro activity: Stand up, hand up, pair up (Manjit and Rachel model – 3 min.)
- Explain and model attention signal
  - ** Music: I Like to Move It
- 10 minutes (activity below)
- When the music starts they will stand up with their paper and move around the room until the music stops.
- After the music stops, find whoever is closest to you, high-five them and wait for instructions.
- Identify A and B, whoever's head is closest to the ceiling is A. 30 seconds for A. When buzzer alerts, B will begin. High five!
- Walk around the room, share...this is first partner.
- When music begins, both partners will walk around the room together and wait for the music to stop. They will find the 2 pairs closest to them and form a group to 8. If there are 8 at a table, do 2 groups of 4.
- Person whose head is closest to the ceiling with share first, this time about their partner's responses (30 seconds). Move around the group clockwise.
- After everyone shares, the group will pack and stack to their designated table.
- Play "Going Home"

Total — 19 minutes, End — 9:01am

Transition: Over the course of our time together you are going to be having a lot of conversation with your table mates. Let's take a moment to determine...

- Once at seats, explain mixing up rational (1 min)
  - People come and sit down together (maybe with the same mindsets)
  - We provide team building opportunities
  - What's best for mixing up our audience might not always be the best for mixing up your audience. Knowing your audience, you will need...

- Housekeeping (3 min.)

- "Since this will be home for the next couple hours, let's take some time to orient ourselves with the room"

PUNCH

PUNCH (2 min.):

To grab our participants' attention right away, we have to strike quickly. One way to remember some strategies of how to do this is through the acronym PUNCH. All presentations have at least one of these elements:

- Personal: A personal or relevant story can be an effective opening.
- Unexpected: Tell them an unexpected fact to get people to focus.
- Novel: Start with a powerful image that's never been seen or reveal a relevant short that's never been heard.
- Challenging: Challenge your audience to make them think, challenge their assumptions
- Humorous: Use humor to connect with the audience to make them laugh. Laughter releases endorphins, relaxes whole body, can change one's perspective on listening.

In your packets you all have a PUNCH handout. Take 1 min. to individually read through the PUNCH handout and highlight, and become more acquainted with the acronym.
